*Eclipse—
Urbanism
Beyond the City*

Urbanism has historically been concerned with cities; only exceptional projects have dealt with territory and the territorial character of urbanisation. The eclipse is introduced as metaphor and method to approach urban territories beyond the city – only when the city itself is eclipsed, can the phenomena unfolding in its “shadow“ be adequately perceived and analysed. To reinvent urbanism in the age of the Anthropocene, a widening of its disciplinary field from cities to urbanising territories is required.
